PERSONAL STATEMENT

My name is Stephen Gaita Gaikia, and I am writing to request financial assistance through your scholarship program to pursue my Bachelor of Science in Computer Science at Templum University. I am the firstborn in a family of four children. Raising us has become an overwhelming challenge for my parents, who are both elderly, frail, and fully retired from their casual labors.

Our family has no reliable, stable source of income. Both of my parents are over 70 years of age and suffer from chronic age-related ailments. My father, who used to work as a casual hand on construction sites, and my mother, who did laundry for households in our neighborhood, are no longer physically capable of working. Our household relies on irregular, small elder-assistance stipends from local community groups and well-wishers, which average between Ksh 6,000 and Ksh 8,000 per month. This tiny income is barely enough to cover basic food, water, rent, and my parents' essential medical prescriptions, leaving absolutely nothing for school fees.

Throughout high school, my education was frequently disrupted due to unpaid fees. I was sent home almost every term. Despite missing critical weeks of classes, I remained determined to break our household's cycle of poverty. I spent my late nights studying under the light of a solar lantern, eventually graduating with an A-minus (76 points) in my national KCSE examinations. My former high school principal can attest that I was only allowed to sit my final national exams out of pure compassion, leaving behind an outstanding balance of Ksh 18,400, which my parents have been unable to pay.

Securing admission to study Computer Science at Templum University is a life-changing opportunity, but our financial situation stands in the way. As shown on my student portal, the outstanding tuition and accommodation fees for my academic year stand at KES 75,000 (after paying a tiny deposit of KES 5,000). This amount is an impossible mountain for my retired parents. Without your scholarship support, I will have no choice but to defer my studies, stalling my education before it truly begins.

I firmly believe that education, particularly in computer science, is our family's only gateway to a sustainable life. With this degree, I aim to develop software solutions that can help smallholder farmers and informal micro-businesses manage their trade, while earning an income to support my younger siblings' education. I am deeply committed to my studies and to giving back to my community in Rungiri. I thank you for considering my application and offering me a chance to build a better future.
